

MAKE SEARCH FOR GOAT-HUNTER LOST IN MAKAKA VALLEY

Harry Newcomb Missing Since Sunday Morning and Grave Fear Is Felt

BELIEVE HIGH CLIFFS MAY HAVE TRAPPED HIM

Other Theory Is That Real Estate Man Shot Himself By Accident

Harry Newcomb, real estate sales agent for the Henry Waterhouse Trust company, is missing in the mountains of Makaka Valley. He has not been seen since early Sunday morning. He did not respond yesterday to shouts and shots that filled the valley. Search will be continued today by many men. A party of seven, headed by Alexander Hume Ford and F. E. Steere, Newcomb's superior at the Waterhouse Trust, left by automobile last night. A severe accident or death is feared. Mr. Steere said that he did not see how Newcomb could have become lost; that is, merely have lost his way. The valley would be in plain view always. Unless he crossed the mountains in one of two directions it is believed that he fell from a cliff or shot himself, by accident. He does not know the mountain well.

He was hunting goats. He and Thurston Taylor, son of Mrs. Ethel M. Taylor, left here Saturday afternoon by train. They spent the night at the ranch house of George Myers, at the valley, and left at daybreak on their hunt.

Suggests Separate Hunt
Newcomb suggested that they hunt separately. Taylor demurred, holding to the rule that a man should go into the mountains by two, but he gave in, and they separated. Taylor took the north side of the valley; Newcomb the south. Taylor's side was the best shooting, and Newcomb may have gone far in search of game.

"About eight thirty, Taylor heard a shot near the head of the valley. About noon he thought he saw a figure on one of the peaks on the north side of the valley, but Steere said he could not understand how Newcomb could have gone so far over difficult ways in such a short time.

Taylor finished his hunting and returned to the valley in the afternoon. He waited for Newcomb and shouted and shot, but there was no reply. He returned to the ranch house. Yesterday morning, he and Myers, with others, went out, but they returned at night without having found a trace of Newcomb. One trace was found Sunday by persons coming down the valley—Newcomb's canteen. Steere attached little importance to this, but Mr. Ford held that it would indicate that Newcomb, if still living, might be in a bad way for water.

Deputy Sheriff Helps
Deputy Sheriff Richard Gilliland was notified, and he telephoned Sheriff Rose here. He aided in the search yesterday, and Taylor remained at his home last night. Gilliland told Mr. Steere last night that they had found nothing.

Lieut. Harrison H. C. Richards of the Fourth Cavalry, Schofield Barracks, volunteered to help, and he is expected to head a party of men today.

The valley is thirty-four miles from Honolulu. Spurs of hills run close to the sea, enclosing the valley. Mount Kaala, 4039 feet high, is at its rear. There are many treacherous cliffs, some of great height. Passage directly to the east over Mount Kaala would be very difficult; in fact, Mr. Ford said last night that only six men had scaled it, of whom he was one. That was last September. It is a difficult and a long climb.

Taking into consideration the approximate place where Taylor heard Newcomb shoot at eight-thirty, there were only two likely routes for him. To follow from the valley, if he left it. One would be over the ridge beyond Mount Kaala to Mokuia; the other on the west side of the same ridge to Makua. However, it is so much easier for a man to remain in the valley than to leave it, that it is not believed he took either of these routes; especially when he knew Taylor would be awaiting him.

Here for Four Years
Newcomb is thirty-one years old. He has been here four years. During the last few months he has made a name for himself in the real estate business. He put the recent Royal Grove addition on the market. He lived at the Y. M. C. A.

The party that left by automobile last night was composed of Mr. Steere, Mr. Ford, R. E. Lambert, Gilbert Brown, Joseph Stickney, Frederick Cramp and Fred Ziegler. Four, Steere, Ford, Stickney and Ziegler, know Makaka valley. Five of the party are directors of the Trail and Mountain Club, and, Mr. Ford said, "all are good hikers."

Mr. Steere expected last night to be able to have definite word tonight.

AQUITANIA ON THE ROCKS

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)

NEW YORK, June 1.—An unformed report has reached here that the giant Cunard liner Aquitania, of 47,000 tons, put into commission last year and now under charter to the Admiralty, is on the rocks in the Mersey, carrying troops from Liverpool to the Dardanelles.

SPLENDID PARADE BEFORE CEREMONY

Memorial Day Featured With the Pomp and Circumstance of Imposing Ceremony

ELEVEN men in blue, all that were able to testify by their presence on Memorial Day to the spirit of sixty-one, were held up by Rear Admiral Charles R. T. Moore, in the opinion of the day, as the types and exemplars of a temper that never must be softened if the nation would not become a passive and pusillanimous people, willing to sacrifice at any time its rights, its principles, and perhaps its existence, for the purchase of peace.

There was no mistaking the fact that Admiral Moore had in mind the crisis that now confronts the Nation. Although the general truths that he enunciated might, in other times, have been deemed hardly as nothing more than a repetition of time-honored principles, he made them applicable by guarded but specific allusions to the problems President Wilson is weighing at this moment in the White House.

War Sometimes Preferable
"In some times," he said, "when to rise in arms and assert the right is a lesser calamity than submission to wrong."

And again, it was impossible not to see a reference to the destruction of the Lusitania, with the loss of so many American lives, in these sentences:

"The man who is willing, merely for the sake of peace, to see his country put in peril, or his citizens deprived of their right to go freely out upon their lawful occasions, in too mean of spirit even to be despised."

"It is our duty to show the world that while we desire to live in peace within our borders, respecting every right of every other nation, we shall resist and demand and enforce every right of every American the world over."

In numbers, excellence of parade and efficiency of organization the procession to Nuunua cemetery excelled anything that Honolulu ever has seen on a Memorial Day.

Formation of Parade

In order of march were a platoon of mounted police; the First Battalion of the Second Infantry, U. S. A., led by Maj. Michael J. Leishan, grand marshal, and his staff, mounted, and the regimental band; a squad of sailors from the U. S. S. Maryland and the ship's band; the Hawaiian National Guard and its new band; the United Spanish War Veterans, both those in civil life and those still in the service; the Honolulu Kanohiua School cadets, in their gray dress uniforms; the Honolulu School for Boys, in white, with their new rifles and side arms; the Improved Order of Red Men; eleven of the seventeen surviving members of the George W. De Long Post, G. A. R.; and Governor Pinkham and his party, also in a motor car.

Thousands of persons lined the streets from the Capitol grounds, where the parade formed, down King to Fort, and along upper Fort street. Hundreds carried flowers, and the floral display at the G. A. R. plot in Nuunua cemetery was one of the most beautiful ever seen.

Men of F-4 Remembered

Nor were the men of the F-4 forgotten. Flowers contributed by the G. A. R. were carried out in a launch from the Maryland and scattered on the waters over the spot where the submarine went down, after which a bugler sounded taps.

Government and business officers were closed for the day, and thousands looked to the beach at Waikiki and into the country for picnic. The street cars did double duty carrying the throngs.

At the territorial prison there were athletic games in the morning and musical services in the evening.

WORK TO RESUME ON FOUNDERED F-4

Barring Further Accidents. Submarine Will Be Docked Thursday or Friday

Work will be resumed today on putting the three more lines about the hull of the submarine F-4. One line holds her bow now. It was run through the big turret in the hull. Divers Nielsen and Dreilshak did that work Sunday before rough seas prevented further operations for the day.

There was no work yesterday. Memorial Day. This morning divers will pass more light lines under the boat's hull, preparatory to reeling heavier lines and eventually hoisting chains and cables under it. Frank Grilly and Herman Jorgensen are expected to start the work today.

Aided by a smooth sea, such as there was yesterday, at least two and possibly all three lines may be got about the boat today. At any rate, it is expected that all three will be in place tomorrow, when lifting probably will begin. Thursday or Friday is expected to see the submarine in the harbor, barring accidents such as that of last Tuesday.

The channel will be patrolled while the submarine is being brought inside, so as to have no interference. After the Matsonia sails at ten o'clock tomorrow, there will be no passenger steamers until Friday or Saturday, so that there probably will be no delay to any passenger ship, even should the unexpected happen, and there be delay in the channel.

ENGLAND COUNTS LOSSES AT SEA

Total Mercantile Tonnage Lost Since War Began Nearly Nearly Half Million

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
LONDON, June 1.—Since the beginning of the war, ten months ago, the British merchant marine has lost one hundred and thirty vessels, from commerce destroying German cruisers, by mines and submarines. These figures, which include the loss yesterday of the steamer Dixiana, sunk off the coast of Brittany, were given out last night by the admiralty.

Of these, German cruisers sank fifty-six ships, twelve were destroyed by mines and sixty-two have been submerged. In addition, the Germans have destroyed eighty-three fishing boats. The total tonnage lost to the merchant marine has been 470,000 tons.

The steamer Dixiana, sunk off the French coast yesterday morning, was bound from Savannah, Georgia, to Swansea, Wales. Her crew has been saved.

Last night a report from Eloyds' states, the Danish steamer Soborg, a vessel of 1335 tons, bound from Aarhus, Denmark, for Baltimore, was torpedoed in the English Channel by a German submarine and sunk. The crew was saved.

MEXICO STARVING, AMERICANS STATE

Not Enough Corn To Last Until Scanty November Harvest Is Garnered

(Continued from Page One)
"The spirit which will starve a people for personal gain or selfish military ambition does not make for liberty of democracy. Mexico must reap as she has sown, and unless the anarchy, chaos and desolation which prevail in all parts of the republic under the guise of liberating armies is remedied, the world will witness a spectacle here which will be as a page torn from the history of the Middle Ages."

WILL SUBDIVIDE BIG OLAA TRACT

Commissioner Tucker Expects To Dispose of Valuable Land For Grazing Purposes

The new Olaa Reservation homestead section on the island of Hawaii will be divided into lots of from 300 to 400 acres each and leased out by the Territory for small dairy purposes, according to plans now being considered by Governor Pinkham and Land Commissioner Tucker.

This immense tract of government land was divided into fifty-one lots some years ago. It was mostly taken up by prospective homesteaders, who gave their holdings up, however, being unable to raise produce of any kind at a profit, the inaccessibility of the land to the market and the extremely high freight charges ruling, because of this, making the venture a non-profitable one.

Takers Await Action
A. G. Curtis and others have of late requested that the lands be subdivided, they claiming that in lots of from 300 to 400 acres each purchasers, either in fee simple or on long-term leases, could be found to take the lots up and develop that rich section of the Big Island. The land is said to be of an excellent quality for grazing purposes.

Land Commissioner Tucker leaves in the Mauna Kea for Maui tomorrow, to be gone about ten days. He will look into a number of government land deals on the Valley Island. After his return to Honolulu he will leave for Hawaii and will take up the Olaa grazing lands question, as well as look further into the homestead site question near the connection with the Waialeale lands near Hilo. Several hundred residence lots are to be opened in Waialeale.

CORPSE RIDES BLOCKS IN RAPID TRANSIT CAR

An unknown Japanese died from an attack of heart failure on a rapid transit car on Sunday night, and the body is now at the morgue awaiting identification.

Conductor Tracy says that shortly after eleven o'clock a Japanese man boarded his car between Kalahele and Keolu and Keolu street and paid his fare. Shortly afterward the conductor noticed him struggling on his seat and on asking him what was the matter received no answer.

When Bethel street was reached Tracy called Officer Akoe's attention to the man, who was taken to the morgue and thence to the morgue.

A watch and fifteen dollars and fifty cents were found on the body.

NATION SOLIDLY BEHIND WILSON

Newspapers of Country Unanimously Condemn German Reply As Quibbling

(Continued from Page One)
The press of the United States yesterday and today is almost a unit, with the exception of the German-American newspapers, in severe criticism of the German note. The following are typical expressions of editorial opinion from well known journals:

NEW YORK TIMES—"The reply is not responsive to our demands."

NEW YORK WORLD—"Worse than evasive, it is evasive, even pettifogging."

NEW YORK TRIBUNE—"The reply will not satisfy American opinion."

NEW YORK PRESS—"Friendly, gracious, and unimpeachable."

ST. LOUIS REPUBLIC—"Its chief significance is not in the things put in, but the things left out."

CHICAGO TRIBUNE—"The administration cannot honestly dodge the questions raised by Germany."

CHICAGO JOURNAL—"The claim that the Lusitania was armed is an unfounded insult to the United States."

INDIANAPOLIS STAR—"If Germany has any facts to justify the assumption that the Lusitania was armed or carried explosives, she should be permitted to offer them."

LOUISVILLE COURIER JOURNAL—"The German answer is a quibble."

PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER—"Germany is trifling with the United States. The reply is a play for time."

FORTY PERSONS PERISH WHEN STEAMSHIP BURNS

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.) STOCKHOLM, June 1.—It is reported that the Swedish steamship Bore caught fire and was burned with the loss of forty passengers, suffocated by smoke, burned to death and drowned in attempts to escape. The catastrophe is supposed to have happened at sea off Helsingfors, but there are as yet no particulars.

LONDONS AND PARTY BACK FROM MOLOKAI

Beauties of Pelekunu and Wai-lau Valleys Explored With Aid of Sampan

Mr. and Mrs. Jack London returned last night from the Molokai Settlement, where they have been visiting Doctor Goodhue since Tuesday last, in the fishing sampan Pinia Maru (No. 144).

The launch left Honolulu Sunday afternoon at three o'clock, with A. L.
C. Atkinson, president of the Hawaii Fisheries Ltd.; Matsushita, treasurer of the company; L. A. Thurston, W. L. Emory and his son Kenneth on board.

The party picked up London and his wife at the settlement and ferried them around to the Pelekunu Valley, where they landed at noon Sunday.

The valley supports a native population of about thirty, and is remarkable for the luxuriance and beauty of its tropical vegetation, watered by numberous brooks and extending down to the edge of the sea.

After exploring the Pelekunu Valley, the party traveled to the Wailau Valley, several miles eastward and almost to the easternmost tip of Molokai Island.

Leaving Wailau at noon Monday, they arrived at Honolulu at a quarter to seven last night. Splendid weather, light breezes and smooth seas followed them for the whole trip, and they had fair luck trolling for fish on both legs of the voyage.

GERMAN AGENT TRAILED

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.) SEATTLE, June 1.—Acting on cabled advices from the Russian communist consigned to Russia, which was deportment here believes it has picked up the trail of a German agent supposed to have been responsible for the explosion Saturday of fifteen tons of dynamite consigned to Russia, which was detonated while being towed in a barge across the harbor here.

Owing to the absence of Chairman Charles R. Forbes and Commissioner J.
N. S. Williams, there will be no meeting of the public utilities commission today. Commissioner Alexis J. Grenoux is the only member of the commission on hand. It is not likely that a meeting of this body will be held during the next six weeks.

GREEK MURDERS PARAMOUR; THEN KILLS HIMSELF

Recent Arrival At Iwilei Shot
By Man Who Followed Her
From Coast

Honolulu had its second murder with in a week yesterday, followed by the murderer's suicide.

Shortly after one o'clock in the morning, Louis Manes, a recent arrival at Honolulu, entered a house at Iwilei and fired three shots from a revolver at a girl known in the district as Lena Brown, killing her almost instantly.

Manes then turned the weapon on himself and blew out his own brains.
The woman had arrived here from San Francisco only a week ago last Friday. Manes followed her from the coast by the next steamer.

Iwilei harbored the murdered woman after her arrival. She made her home in a cottage rented by Bertha Stein.

A day or so ago Manes went to the cottage and quarreled with Lena. The proprietor of the house intervened and bade the man make himself scarce.

Yesterday, the woman was in her home when she saw Manes approach.
Fearing trouble, she fled to an adjoining cottage.

Three Shots To Kill Manes followed her and, entering the house, found Lena in a back room.
After a few heated words, he pulled a gun and sticking it against the woman's breast, fired. The bullet struck a bone and, glancing, buried itself a little below the skin.

A struggle ensued, in which the woman tried to wrest the weapon from her assailant. Again he fired. This time the bullet went through her left arm above the elbow. A third shot pierced the girl's neck below the jaw.
The revolver had been held so close to her face that it was speckled with powder burns.

Manes then shot himself through the head.
Bodies Lay Side By Side
When the police arrived they found the two bodies lying side by side on the floor at a bedside. The girl was dead only in a kimono.

As the woman showed a flickering sign of life, she was rushed to the hospital, but she died on the way.
Thence her body was taken to the morgue where that of her slayer attended was reposing.

The revolver found in the room was a 38-cal. U. S. make.
Manes, according to a card given to a friend, lived at the Marquis Hotel, 917 Kearney street, San Francisco, and passed as a dealer in embroidery and silks.

The dead man had spent a considerable portion of his time while in Honolulu seeing the sights in an automobile.
He appeared to be well furnished with money. Yesterday morning he was seen in the immediate vicinity of the shooting.

As the patrol wagon bore the woman to the hospital a man jumped on to the steps. He was Harry Rotberg, who runs a sandwich and frankfurter stand in Iwilei, a short distance from the place where the tragedy occurred.

Husband Lives Here
Rotberg declares that the woman was his wife and that he married her in New York about two years ago. He says that she left him after eight months of married life and that he did not see her again until the latter part of last year, when she visited his place of business in Los Angeles and asked to be forgiven and taken back.

According to Rotberg, the couple made up, and he returned to San Francisco with Manes.
Rotberg came to Honolulu a short time ago and went into business but did not until last week did he again see or hear of his wife, and then he came across her accidentally on the street.
He says she told him that she had been living in Iwilei and he persuaded her to go with him once again.

Rotberg declares that the woman
was his wife and that he married her
in New York about two years ago. He says that she left him after eight months of married life and that he did not see her again until the latter part of last year, when she visited his place
of business in Los Angeles and asked
to be forgiven and taken back.

Rotberg came to Honolulu a short time ago and went into business but
did not until last week did he again see
or hear of his wife, and then he came
across her accidentally on the street.
He says she told him that she had been living in Iwilei and he persuaded her
to go with him once again.

Last Saturday Rotberg went to work as usual and on returning to his room at the Delmonico Hotel, noticed his wife's absence. Investigation showed that she was in a house of ill fame that was the last time he spoke to her.
The woman was a Jewess, about twenty-two years of age, dark and petite. Manes, about thirty years old, is said to have been an Armenian or Greek. He wore a Moose emblem.
Manes had been living at the Villa rooming house on Fort Street. He passed the remark to acquaintances that he had plenty of money and didn't care how quickly he got rid of it.

Barnie Watson, a chauffeur, has driven Manes nearly every day for the past week. He says that he secured him from Los Angeles.

Manes told Watson that he had come to Honolulu to find a girl named Lena, with whom he had lived in San Francisco and of whom he was very fond.

A few weeks ago, he said, Lena had stolen a valuable diamond ring from him and San Francisco detectives had found the ring in the possession of Rotberg, whom he alleged had come from San Francisco and come to Honolulu.

Manes seemed to be crazy about the girl, said Watson, last night. He told me that the woman followed Rot-berg to Honolulu and that he followed her. He also said that Rotberg had married the woman in Honolulu last week and had showed him papers proving it. He said that he wanted to get Lena away from Iwilei.

An arrest on the ladies will be held tomorrow afternoon.

WATER FRONT NEWS

Recent Arrival At Iwilei Shot
By Man Who Followed Her
From Coast

Honolulu had its second murder with
in a week yesterday, followed by the murderer's suicide.

Shortly after one o'clock in the morning, Louis Manes, a recent arrival at Honolulu, entered a house at Iwilei and fired three shots from a revolver at a girl known in the district as Lena Brown, killing her almost instantly.

Manes then turned the weapon on
himself and blew out his own brains.
The woman had arrived here from San Francisco only a week ago last Friday. Manes followed her from the coast by the next steamer.

Iwilei harbored the murdered woman
after her arrival. She made her home in a cottage rented by Bertha Stein.

A day or so ago Manes went to the cottage and quarreled with Lena. The
proprietor of the house intervened and
bade the man make himself scarce.

Yesterday, the woman was in her
home when she saw Manes approach.
Fearing trouble, she fled to an adjoining cottage.

Three Shots To Kill
Manes followed her and, entering
the house, found Lena in a back room.
After a few heated words, he pulled
a gun and sticking it against the woman's breast, fired. The bullet struck
a bone and, glancing, buried itself a little below the skin.

A struggle ensued, in which the woman tried to wrest the weapon from
her assailant. Again he fired. This time the bullet went through her left arm above the elbow. A third shot
pierced the girl's neck below the jaw.
The revolver had been held so close to
her face that it was speckled with powder burns.

Manes then shot himself through
the head.
Bodies Lay Side By Side
When the police arrived they found
the two bodies lying side by side on
the floor at a bedside. The girl was dead only in a kimono.

As the woman showed a flickering
sign of life, she was rushed to the hospital, but she died on the way.
Thence her body was taken to the
morgue where that of her slayer attended was reposing.

The revolver found in the room was a 38-cal. U. S. make.
Manes, according to a card given
to a friend, lived at the Marquis Hotel, 917 Kearney street, San Francisco, and passed as a dealer in embroidery
and silks.

The dead man had spent a considerable portion of his time while in Honolulu seeing the sights in an automobile.
He appeared to be well furnished with
money. Yesterday morning he was seen in the immediate vicinity of the shooting.

As the patrol wagon bore the woman
to the hospital a man jumped on to the
steps. He was Harry Rotberg, who runs a sandwich and frankfurter stand
in Iwilei, a short distance from the place where the tragedy occurred.

Husband Lives Here
Rotberg declares that the woman was his wife and that he married her
in New York about two years ago. He says that she left him after eight months of married life and that he did not see her again until the latter part of last year, when she visited his place
of business in Los Angeles and asked
to be forgiven and taken back.

According to Rotberg, the couple
made up, and he returned to San Francisco with Manes.
Rotberg came to Honolulu a short time ago and went into business but
did not until last week did he again see
or hear of his wife, and then he came
across her accidentally on the street.
He says she told him that she had been living in Iwilei and he persuaded her
to go with him once again.

Rotberg declares that the woman
was his wife and that he married her
in New York about two years ago. He says that she left him after eight months of married life and that he did not see her again until the latter part of last year, when she visited his place
of business in Los Angeles and asked
to be forgiven and taken back.

Rotberg came to Honolulu a short
time ago and went into business but
did not until last week did he again see
or hear of his wife, and then he came
across her accidentally on the street.
He says she told him that she had been living in Iwilei and he persuaded her
to go with him once again.

Last Saturday Rotberg went to work
as usual and on returning to his room
at the Delmonico Hotel, noticed his wife's absence. Investigation showed
that she was in a house of ill fame
that was the last time he spoke to her.
The woman was a Jewess, about twenty-two years of age, dark and petite. Manes, about thirty years old, is said to have been an Armenian
or Greek. He wore a Moose emblem.
Manes had been living at the Villa rooming house on Fort Street. He passed the remark to acquaintances
that he had plenty of money and didn't care how quickly he got rid of it.

Barnie Watson, a chauffeur, has
driven Manes nearly every day for the past week. He says that he secured him from Los Angeles.

Manes told Watson that he had come to Honolulu to find a girl named Lena, with whom he had lived in San Francisco and of whom he was very fond.